Longtime fans may remember the previous incarnation of Speedrome Live almost a decade ago on the TV station owner by renowned escape artist Bill Shirk. The very popular show will be along that same great format with guests, video clips from recent races (provided thanks to videographer Keith Graybill), point updates, stats, and even some interaction from the fans. This 2010 version will be hosted by regional media personality Greg Rakestraw. "I am proud to a part of this showcase", stated the familiar sports voice. "Airing on Hometown Sports will bring Speedrome Live into over 1 million homes in the Indianapolis area". Also joining in on the telecast will be Speedrome News Director Scott Nigh.

Greg Rakestraw is a veteran announcer and sports personality covering most of Indiana. He joined Hometown Sports as Vice President of Programming and Content in 2009. Rakestraw is responsible for managing and directing the growth of high school, small college and Indiana based professional sports productions for the 24/7 state wide cable based network. He is a 1998 graduate of the University of Indianapolis and has been the voice of too many sporting events to name. Greg has also had his own show on various radio stations throughout the years. His passion and knowledge of sports is unparalleled.

Hometown Sports Indiana was launched in August to exclusively showcase local sporting events live and On Demand for area cable customers. The channel is available to digital cable customers at no additional cost. It features plenty of High School sports action as well as many state championship contests. Their college team lineup includes nearly all the universities located in Indiana. On the Professional level, the viewing destination has games from the Fort Wayne TinCaps, Indianapolis Indians, and Fort Wayne Komets plus local racing and other sports related programming.
